

Looking for Talent

A leader in aviation and aviation training products is looking for the best to journey with us into the future of navigation! For more than 80 years, Jeppesen, a Boeing subsidiary, has made it possible for pilots and their passengers to safely and efficiently reach their destinations. We are the world's leading provider of aeronautical data and are combining our company's enduring spirit of innovation with a legacy of leadership in aviation to deliver 21st century navigation and optimization solutions.

At Jeppesen, we believe in a balance between personal growth and professional development. We hire the best to grow our company's future. Watch the Jeppesen Poland movie to learn more about Jeppesen's pioneering spirit and to apply for our open positions.

Navigation Information Analyst

As a Navigation Information Analyst you will:

- Create or update electronically designed aviation products
- Receive considerable technical direction, training, and guidance from peers and superiors as required or requested
- Communicate daily in English, with team members abroad and in Poland
- Document your work in English

Requirements:

- University degree or experience in aviation, navigation, geodesy, geography or related field
- Experience and/or desire to work with data
- Very good command of English

Key responsibilities:

- Collecting, processing, and analyzing aeronautical data on the basis of available sources of information
- Creating and updating electronically designed aviation products with relevant aeronautical data

Knowledge and Skills:

- Knowledge of aviation, geography, geodesy, navigation or related field will be a plus
- Fast learning skills
- High flexibility/ability to work in dynamic environment
- Accuracy and focus on details
- Organization and multi-tasking skills
- Interest in aviation industry would be an advantage

If you want to:

- have an authentic influence on the future of aviation
- be a part of something big, challenging and meaningful
- have the opportunity to work with the biggest players in the aviation world
- have flexible working hours
- have a private medical care and a sport card
- join our sports teams
- enjoy fruits and veggies

please submit your application in English.